Centre padas (4-5) are Primary, then Balanced, Supportive, and Transitional beside each corner. Same 32-pada method as the VastuIQ Pada Calculator.

Your door position: E7 (Supportive zone)

This position sits between the center and the corner — a workable position that carries the direction's character but with a mild pull from the neighbouring direction. In the East direction — traditionally linked to new beginnings, vitality and clarity of thought, and associated with Indra, associated with the rising sun and the start of a fresh cycle — this pada reflects supportive-level alignment with those qualities. This position carries a mild influence from South's qualities (stability), alongside East's own character.

Strengths

- + Workable position that benefits from good upkeep and a well-maintained east approach
- + Retains most of the direction's core character

Watch for

- ! More sensitive to clutter or obstruction near the entrance than a central position
- ! Benefits from being paired with a well-maintained overall approach and threshold

How the position score was worked out

East-facing door: what it means

Traditionally linked with health, growth and social standing because it faces the rising sun. Centre padas are the most favourable.

Note: Positions close to the south-east corner are treated with more caution.

Door colours	cream, light yellow, light wood tones, white
Nameplate	Wood or copper-toned nameplate.
Lighting	Keep morning light unblocked; warm light in the evening.

Door colours by direction are traditional guidance and vary between Vastu schools. Present them as options, not rules.

What we found, most important first

1. HIGH PRIORITY · DOOR POSITION

Door sits between the centre and the corner (E7)

A workable position that does best with a well-kept, well-lit approach.

FREE

Keep the approach to the door clear and well maintained.

LOW COST

Add brighter lighting at the threshold to reinforce the entrance.

2. MEDIUM · WHAT YOUR DOOR FACES

Another flat's door directly opposite

Two doors facing each other is traditionally seen as a clash at the threshold. It is very common in apartments and easy to soften.

FREE

Keep your door closed when not in use and the area in front of it clean and uncluttered.

LOW COST

Hang a fresh toran or a simple door hanging and use a good-quality doormat to mark your own threshold.

LOW COST

Keep a healthy potted plant beside (not in front of) your door.

3. MEDIUM · WHAT YOUR DOOR FACES

Lift directly facing the door

A lift opposite the door brings constant movement and noise toward the entrance. Traditionally it is seen as unsettling the energy at the door.

FREE

Keep the main door closed and a light on at the entry in the evening.

LOW COST

Place a tall potted plant beside the door and a thick doormat at the threshold.

LOW COST

Inside, a light curtain or a slim screen in the entry slows the direct line from the door.

4. MEDIUM · YOUR ENTRY AREA

Dark or poorly lit entrance

Entrance upkeep is one of the quickest things to improve.

LOW COST

Add a warm light at the door and keep it on in the evening.

5. MEDIUM · YOUR ENTRY AREA

Shoe rack right at the door

Entrance upkeep is one of the quickest things to improve.

FREE

Move the shoe rack to the side, away from the door's direct line, and keep it closed.

6. MEDIUM · WHAT YOUR DOOR FACES

Mirror facing the main door

A mirror facing the door is traditionally said to reflect incoming energy back out.

FREE

Move the mirror to a side wall of the entry.

7. LOW · THE DOOR ITSELF

No threshold

A threshold marks the boundary between outside and inside.

LOW COST

A removable threshold strip or a firm doormat.
